

What is the fee estimator?

Our building permit fees are based on the valuation of your project. The fee estimator is a helpful tool to determine the cost of your building permit. You just need to know the valuation of your project and the square footage. The valuation includes all labor and materials, regardless of who is doing the work or what the materials cost. If the labor and materials are being donated, the valuation would be the market value of the materials and labor. Please remember that this is only an estimate and that the valuation may change upon review by our Plans Examiner.
